

The Value of Collaborating with HighBank

One of the most important decisions a business owner will make is when and how he or she will generate liquidity from their business.

For your “business owner” clients who have a significant amount of their personal wealth locked up in their business, there are a breadth of options to evaluate as they define their short- and long-term goals to monetize the investment in their business.

This is where HighBank can make a difference.

Over 70% of business owners’ wealth is in invested in their business⁽¹⁾

Value for Your Clients

HighBank can advise your clients on an extensive range of liquidity options to diversify their assets. There are many individual factors that may influence each client’s decision, such as:

- Your client needs analytical and valuation information on their business to develop a succession plan.
- Your client wants to step back from running the business but is not ready for a full exit.
- Your client wants to take some “chips off the table” now but continue running the business and plan a full exit at a later time.
- Your client is intrigued because valuations are at historically high levels.
- Your client is at an age where they do not want to “wait out” another down market like during the great recession.
- Your client wants to continue growing the business but is limited by how much more they can invest.

Value for Your Practice

HighBank’s senior professionals possess decades of experience in designing and executing liquidity options for private business owners. Working with us as a part of this process, and encouraging your clients to proactively evaluate these critically important business decisions, further enhances your client relationships and deepens their trust in you as a valued advisor. Finally, upon completion of any type of liquidity event, your clients’ assets under management will increase and your role will be essential in assisting them to strategically diversify their newly liquid assets.
